

Questions for Homegroups

---

Ezra 4-6

At the beginning of Ezra 4 the Israelites reject the help of the surrounding people despite the fact that they will later accept money from Persian treasuries, and wood from Lebanon etc. How do God's people decide who they will cooperate with and who not? How does this affect our cooperation with other churches or with the state?

The Israelites had to persevere for generations in their building project. Survey Ezra 4-6 and list the things that frustrated them, and what helped them keep going. Does this change your attitude to your own personal perseverance?

Israel is now unable to defend herself by force of arms as she did in previous generations. Think through how this change follows through into the New Testament. How does the defencelessness of God's people affect their life and witness? How does this affect our modern attitude to what it means to be a church in a non-Christian country?

What is the most important lesson that you have learned this evening?

Questions for Homegroups

---

Ezra 4-6

At the beginning of Ezra 4 the Israelites reject the help of the surrounding people despite the fact that they will later accept money from Persian treasuries, and wood from Lebanon etc. How do God's people decide who they will cooperate with and who not? How does this affect our cooperation with other churches or with the state?

The Israelites had to persevere for generations in their building project. Survey Ezra 4-6 and list the things that frustrated them, and what helped them keep going. Does this change your attitude to your own personal perseverance?

Israel is now unable to defend herself by force of arms as she did in previous generations. Think through how this change follows through into the New Testament. How does the defencelessness of God's people affect their life and witness? How does this affect our modern attitude to what it means to be a church in a non-Christian country?

What is the most important lesson that you have learned this evening?

Questions for Homegroups

---

Ezra 4-6

At the beginning of Ezra 4 the Israelites reject the help of the surrounding people despite the fact that they will later accept money from Persian treasuries, and wood from Lebanon etc. How do God's people decide who they will cooperate with and who not? How does this affect our cooperation with other churches or with the state?

The Israelites had to persevere for generations in their building project. Survey Ezra 4-6 and list the things that frustrated them, and what helped them keep going. Does this change your attitude to your own personal perseverance?

Israel is now unable to defend herself by force of arms as she did in previous generations. Think through how this change follows through into the New Testament. How does the defencelessness of God's people affect their life and witness? How does this affect our modern attitude to what it means to be a church in a non-Christian country?

What is the most important lesson that you have learned this evening?