A four week series in 2 Peter

Questions

1. Which voices other than the bible can we be tempted to pay attention to? Why are these voices attractive? What makes them authoritative?
2. What is the story these voices are telling, and what does it reveal about their values? How does this compare with the story and values Peter has been reminding us of?
3. How does a clear vision of the true story of the world lead us to value scripture more?
4. How does being reminded that scripture originates in God motivate us to pay attention to it?
5. The “scriptures” for Peter would have been what we call the Old Testament. He calls this the lamp in the dark place. What are some benefits of reading the Old Testament more?
