

We had a more family friendly service this week with everyone in together. Matt started us off by thinking about things that don't fit in – we then considered how we might wage war, as well as our calling to be signposts.

- Peter describes the Christian life as a war - what are we to war against?
- What things might we stop (and start)?
- What stops us from living 'such good lives'?
- How might people respond to us? What is Peter's longer-term hope?
- How does 3v15 shape our understanding of this?
